

Contributors

Source: Film Criticism, Vol. 3, No. 2, Italian Neorealism (Winter, 1979), p. 83

Published by: Allegheny College

Stable URL: <https://www.jstor.org/stable/44018631>

Accessed: 19-12-2022 12:04 UTC

---

JSTOR is a not-for-profit service that helps scholars, researchers, and students discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content in a trusted digital archive. We use information technology and tools to increase productivity and facilitate new forms of scholarship. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

Your use of the JSTOR archive indicates your acceptance of the Terms & Conditions of Use, available at <https://about.jstor.org/terms>

Allegheny College is collaborating with JSTOR to digitize, preserve and extend access to Film Criticism

Contributors

PETER BONDANELLA, associate professor of French and Italian at Indiana University, is a specialist in Italian film as well as Renaissance and modern Italian literature. He is the author of Machiavelli and the Art of Renaissance History, Francesco Guicciardini, The Decameron: A Norton Critical Edition, and Federico Fellini: Essays in Criticism.

PETER BRUNETTE teaches film and literature at George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia. He has published in various film periodicals, including Film Comment, Film Quarterly, and The Velvet Light Trap, and has articles in both Peary and Shatzkin anthologies, The Classic American Novel and the Movies and The Modern American Novel and the Movies. He is currently writing a book on Rossellini.

FRANK BURKE teaches film at the University of Manitoba in Winnipeg. He has published in Purdue Film Studies Annual, Literature/Film Quarterly, and Italica, and is currently writing a two-volume study of Fellini to be published by Twayne.

BEN LAWTON has been director of the Purdue Conference on Film for the past three years. He has published numerous articles on Italian studies and film, and is currently completing a book on neorealism.

TED PERRY has been director of the film section at the Museum of Modern Art and is the new director of the British Film Institute. He writes regularly for Film Comment and Sight and Sound, and is the author of Filmguide to "8½".

J.P. TELOTTE teaches film and contemporary literature at Berry College in Georgia. He has previously published articles on linguistics and modern fiction in The Southern Quarterly and South Atlantic Bulletin.